

I have never written to you before, but the seriousness of this breach of law and intent is so serious, I felt I must now write. I don't understand how a network that uses public airwaves free of charge and is required by law to serve the public interest, can be allowed to try to destroy one candidate's image in the final weeks before our presidential election. What kind of democratic example are we setting for the world? What kind of election is it that uses the tricks of last minute smearing, and using the public airwaves to accomplish it - what kind of country are we supposed to be. I'm ashamed of people who think this is all right. And I'm furious with the Federal Communications Commission that allows it. Stop Sinclair now.

Sincerely,

Christine Maefsky
